

National Trust Pocket Diary 2010

National Trust

The National Trust protects and opens for the benefit of the nation 300 historic houses and 49 industrial monuments and mills. The National Trust Diary 2010 showcases these properties and the treasures within them and features 12 properties from the 16th century to the 1950s semi where John Lennon grew up. Illustrated with colour photographs of interior architecture and room settings, as well as images of objects and fine art, the diary conveys a strong sense of place - whether its a stately home or a Birmingham back-to-back - as well as the people who lived and worked in them. The National Trust Diary 2010 also includes a storage pocket.
