

National Wax Museum (Ireland)

Edited by Loki Radoslav

The National Wax Museum is a privately owned waxworks museum in Dublin, Ireland. On October 7, 2009, the museum officially re-opened (although it had been open to the public a number of weeks prior) following extensive renovation at its new location in the left flank of the Irish Houses of Parliament, at Foster Place. Formerly, the museum was situated on Granby Row, but this building demolished to make way for a hotel. In the past, it was a former site to prayer rooms converted into a cinema and then into a waxworks (now being a hotel after its closure).

- Natural Blue Prints
- The National Domain in Canada and Its Proper Conservation
- The National Park Service Its History, Activities, and Organization
- National Strategy for Research and Data on Children` Lives, 2011-2016
- Natural Disasters : Fire and Flood, Hurricanes and Tornadoes, Volcanoes and Earthquakes
- Native American Programs ACT
- Nationalist Democratic Action