

Nations, Alliances and Security

C N Donnelly, Chris Donnelly

Donnelly has served four NATO Secretary Generals as Special Adviser for Central and Eastern Europe. This collection gathers ten of his essays reflecting on security issues in Europe. Essays focused on Central and Eastern Europe discuss patterns of military transformation, the impact of NATO enlargement, and other issues. The general picture of security, institutional change in Russia's military, the reshaping of European armed forces are explored, and civil-military relations in the 21st century are also explored. Distributed in the US by ISBS.
